March 23, 2018 – 9:00 AM

FINAL STORM UPDATE

The mandatory evacuation from the 8300 block to the 9000 block of La Tuna Canyon Road has been lifted, and access is now available to residents. La Tuna Canyon Road will remain closed from the 8300 block to the 210 Freeway. Residents in this area are advised to use alternate routes.

There are currently no mandatory or voluntary evacuations in the City or County of Los Angeles.

The Bureau of Street Services is working in collaboration with the Bureau of Engineering to evaluate and assess the integrity of all affected roads in the La Tuna Canyon burn area. Currently, there are no reports of any structural damage due to the erosion of the hillside on La Tuna Canyon.

Residents are cautioned that the potential for mudslides and debris flows still exists in the Creek, La Tuna Canyon, and Skirball Fire burn areas. Your City and County first responders will continue to survey these areas over the next few days to identify and mitigate potential hazards.

Shelter closure: The Sun Valley Recreation Center is now closed.

Your Public Safety agencies encourage all residents to take necessary steps to protect themselves from injury and their property from storm damage. The Joint Information Center and 24 hour Resident Hot line are now closed; all media requests should be referred to appropriate public safety agency information officers. Please monitor local news outlets, social media, and weather forecasts for current information.
